Alert Motorist Aids In Apprehending A Driver

QUAKERTOWN, Dec. 5.—An alert motorist who saw a 12-year-old boy knocked off his bicycle by a hit-run motorist on the Bethlehem pike, Friday night, caught the license number of the driver and turned the information over to the State Police.

The motorist, who continued on from the scene of the accident, was arrested two hours later at his home in Philadelphia after he had been in a second accident at the intersection of Bethlehem pike and Welsh road, in Gwynedd township, where his car hit a gasoline pump.

The accused motorist is Bernard McLaughlin, 60, East Woodlawn avenue, Philadelphia, a salesman. According to Trooper Fred Gallagher, of the Quakertown sub-station of State Police, who took McLaughlin to the Bucks County Prison at Doylestown after he had been arrested, McLaughlin was proceeding south on the highway on his way home, when he struck a bicycle ridden by Robert Martin, 12, of Richland township, who was also riding home.

A motorist riding behind McLaughlin saw the child struck and thrown from the bicycle, but the hit-run car continued on. The boy was picked up by Harvey Funk, of Richland township, and taken to Quakertown Community Hospital, where it is reported that his injuries consist of a badly lacerated left leg and abrasions about the face and head. His condition is not considered serious.

In the meantime the observing motorist, whose name has not been disclosed by the State Police, reported the incident to the Quakertown sub-station, where in turn the license number was identified and a request sent to the Philadelphia sub-station of State Police, to pick up McLaughlin.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Past Noble Grands Club of Lily Rebekah Lodge will conduct a Christmas party this evening at eight o'clock. The affair will be held at the home of Mrs. Moss Shatzler, Buckley street.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS (By International News Service)

YANKS SEIZE ALL OF CITY OF SAARLAUTERN

Paris—Yank assault forces were reported in front dispatches today to have seized all of the Saar basin city of Saarlautern in the mounting Third Army offensive threatening the capital city of Saarbrücken which already is under shellfire by advanced forces within six and one-half miles of the city.

Saarlautern was reported entirely in American hands, with the exception of minor enemy pockets which still had to be mopped up. Troops commanded by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton were battling one and a half miles northeast of Saarlautern from bridgehead positions established on the east bank of the Saar, and forward elements tackled the outer defenses of the strongly-held Siegfried Line.

The 95th Infantry Division which achieved the crossing of the Saar deepened its bridgehead against principal left-over German resistance of mortar and small-arms fire. Meanwhile Gen. Patton hammered deeper toward the Saar sending spearheads poking forward against Sarreguemines.

The Fifth Division drove toward the Saar to reach a point two miles from Völklingen, along a nine-mile front inside Germany. The adjacent 80th Division forces drove to within five and one-half miles of the Saar, fighting bitterly two miles south of Forbach, some seven miles from Saarbrücken. Elements of the Sixth Armored Division took the towns of Metzling and Tenteling, eight miles south of Saarbrücken.

The Third Army seized control of the entire west bank of the Saar river along a stretch of more than 16 miles from above Merzig south to Saarlautern and Wallerfangen, which was cleared of enemy forces.

East of Geilenkirchen and Aachen, inside Germany farther north, the American Ninth and First Armies consolidated gains before the Roer river. Enemy opposition mounted all along the line.

DAMAGE TO "JAP" AIRCRAFT FACTORY "SUBSTANTIAL"

B-29 Base, Saipan—Brig. Gen. Haywood S. Hansell, Jr., commanding the 21st Bomber Command, today assessed damage by B-29s in two raids against Tokyo's Masashima aircraft factory as "substantial" but added frankly "it hasn't been destroyed yet by a damn sight."

As far as Tokyo itself is concerned, he said cloud layers have prevented almost daily reconnaissance planes from obtaining accurate pictures on the destruction inflicted in the other two raids.

"We'll just keep going until we get a clear day and find out what happened," he said. Neither elated nor discouraged by results of the Masashima attacks, Hansell said bombing conditions during the Dec. 3 attack were extremely difficult even though the day was clear.

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Three Philadelphia hunters had their plans rudely interrupted the past week when Constable Harvey J. Wambold, of Perkaskie, placed them under arrest on the charge of stealing a valuable pointer dog in the vicinity of Hagersville on the opening day of the small game season, November 1.

The stolen dog belonged to Granville Myers, of Perkaskie, who, with several friends after hunting only an hour in the fog on November 1, discovered the dog was missing.

Upon returning to the farm house, where their car was parked, they were advised that the Philadelphia hunters, who had parked their car along the highway, had left sometime earlier and had taken the dog with them.

Current Farm Problems Discussed at U. Makefield

WASHINGTON CROSSING, Dec. 5.—Discussing current farm problems at the meeting of the Upper Makefield Liberty Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester M. Minkel, Friday evening, County Agent William F. Greenwalt, Doylestown, who served as one of the judges at the farm show which was a feature of the meeting, declared greater production has been stressed, and that the farmers have come up to expectations. The farmers, said Mr. Greenwalt, have done an excellent job in the way of production.

According to Mr. Greenwalt, the thing which is being emphasized now is quality. He said as food is becoming more plentiful the public is demanding a higher quality.

After the war, said Mr. Greenwalt, the farmers will require less help because the demand for production will be reduced and because the farmers have on hand many labor saving devices they were forced to buy during the shortage of help.

Briefly Mr. Greenwalt commented upon the great amount of damage done by the European corn borer. The fact that the borer was less in evidence during the past season, said Mr. Greenwalt, was due more than any other thing to the drought.

NOT MAKING SURGICAL DRESSINGS

It is announced that no more surgical dressings will be made in Bristol for the present. Volunteer workers are asked to watch The Courier for announcement as to when such Red Cross class will reopen.

VISITS HUSBAND

Mrs. Wesley Bilger is paying a visit to her husband at Brownwood, Texas, which is near Camp Bowie, where her husband is stationed.

To the People of this Community

The European war has been expensive, but almost everything in the Pacific war will cost more. Take transportation costs, for instance. Because of the longer distances the same amount of freight costs 25 per cent more when shipped to the South Pacific than to Europe. It takes twice as many cargo ships in the Pacific to support a task force of a given size since turnaround time is twice as great!

In addition, we will need more of everything. More B-29 Superfortresses that cost $800,000 each. More P-47 Thunderbolts that cost $50,000 each. More M-4 Tanks, with bulldozer blades, that cost $67,417 each. More amphibious tanks—more aircraft carriers—more supply ships—more gasoline and oil than it took for the invasion of Europe!

And lest anyone forget, we will need more battalion aid stations—more clearing stations—more evacuation hospitals—more convalescent hospitals—more hospital ships. Your personal responsibility in the Sixth War Loan is helping to pay for the Pacific war is to buy at least an extra $300 War Bond over and above your normal War Bond purchases.

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 5.—Marriage license applicants are getting as scarce as hen's teeth in Bucks county and there's not much chance of a boom in that business until the guns stop firing.

Deputy Clerk of Orphans' Court Joseph A. Keating, of Bristol, looked over the marriage license docket this morning to check up on the November business and commented "Same as last month, right on the bell."

That meant that 67 marriage licenses were issued in the month of November.

Warns That Greece Faces Civil War

London—Premier Winston Churchill warned the House of Commons today that Greece faced civil war, while dispatches from Athens disclosed that Premier George Papandreu had decided to resign as the result of the bloody strike which raged over the week-end in the Greek capital.

Churchill declared he was unable to say who had started the shooting, but added the nation was faced with "desperate economic and financial problems as well as a civil war which we are trying to stop."

"We and America are doing our utmost to give the Greeks assistance and our troops are acting to prevent bloodshed," he said. "Whether the Greeks form themselves a monarchy or a republic, a government of left or right, is for them to decide but until they are in a position to make the decision we shall not hesitate to use the considerable British army now in Greece to see that law and order are maintained."

C. Cocordas Hears of His Relatives in Greece

Chris. Cocordas, Mill street, who had no direct word from his folks in Greece during the last four years, was delighted recently when he received a letter from Mrs. Gus Shiomos, of 29 N. Dewey street, Philadelphia, enclosing a letter from his folks in Greece. It appears it all came about in the following manner:

Cpl. Harry Shiomos, U. S. Army, who was born in Bristol 20 years ago, later moving to Philadelphia, was detailed to special work with the guerrillas in the Greek mountains, and came in contact with many who have relatives in the United States. When he heard the name of Bristol mentioned by some he became greatly interested, and got the full particulars. He had the folks write a letter to their Bristol kinsman, he enclosing it in his letter to his mother in Philadelphia who in turn forwarded it to Mr. Cocordas.

The censored letter vividly described conditions in Greece during the German occupation, the suffering of the people, homes burned, crops destroyed when they could not be utilized, people living in caves and churches, with no food except that dropped by Allied planes, when they got through about once a week.

The news furnished through the bright idea of the young soldier was naturally appreciated by the Cocordas family in Bristol, and their hopes now are that they will soon meet him.

Memorial Monument At St. Ann's is Blessed

Sunday at 11 a. m. over 600 members of St. Ann's Church crowded the church building. The Solemn High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. John DiMatteo who states it was "in honor of the Immaculate Conception for the safe return of the 200 members of the parish in the service." This was followed by the Absolution of the Dead for the eternal rest of the ten members killed in World War II. The Rev. DiMatteo was assisted by the Rev. Donato Parente and the Rev. Mariano Renuzzi.

The Rev. Peter A. Pinci, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon stressing the necessity of putting the love of God above the country's love, and that as soon as a nation inverts this order it is ready for destruction. "God and country at all time, and never country and God."

After mass, the procession headed by the Cross and flags, with pages, altar boys, members of parish societies under their own banner, and the clergy of St. Ann's Church proceeded to the entrance of the building where the Rev. DiMatteo blessed the memorial monument in honor of St. Ann and in memory of the following members killed in action: Chester Terraciano, Charles LaRosa, Alfred DeLissio, Quindo Gerome, Nelson Venturino, Louis D'Ambrosio, Angelo Pollace, Vincent Boccardo, Louis Mazzanti, Michael DiSabato.

The Rev. Mr. Pinci, in the name of all the parishioners, presented in Italian sincere sympathies to their families, and then delivered in English the dedicatory address. For the occasion, St. Ann's School choir rendered the "Gregorian Mass of the Angels," the "Libera" for the absolution at the catafalque, "God Bless America," "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

YOUTH AND IRRESPONSIBILITY

After a survey of private employment agencies in large cities of the country, a prominent insurance company reported, as one of the poll's findings, that the war-time job situation "has spoiled youthful employees to the point of making them irresponsible and demanding, and lowering their efficiency."

But the important part of the report, as far as youthful employees are concerned, is the forecast that such young persons face difficulties in adjusting themselves and in making good in normal postwar competition.

Of course, not all young persons come under the general category of the irresponsible—even in this lush wartime job situation—but those who fall into that classification undoubtedly are due for a struggle when postwar days arrive.

The survey showed that already discharged war veterans are being favored where possible by most employers, although it is pointed out that some veterans have difficulties, too, such as young men who went into the services directly from school and assumed responsibilities of military commands and now find it difficult to start on the same level with inexperienced help in civilian life.

Young employees who permit themselves, in these days of job abundance, to become irresponsible and inefficient might well be told that it is they, themselves, who must suffer when present conditions shift back to normal. It will not be possible for them to acquire suddenly the qualities of discipline, obedience and efficiency which they neglected to develop during war boom days.

Their failure to possess those advantages will put them at quite a discount in the eyes of any employer. When attention is called to their weaknesses, they will suffer many a pang of regret. For their own good, they would do well at the present time to acquire day by day those qualities of mind and will which the world invariably admires and respects.

Himmler warns chaos will rule the world if Germany surrenders. Of course, everything has been sweet and lovely up to now.

Recent survey shows three-fourths of the women now employed in war factories want to keep their jobs. Apparently hubby won't be out of the kitchen for some time.

Since the war is costing $250,000,000 each day, even the purchase of a $25 War Bond will help a little.

Something that might ease the situation is a picture of a handsome man saying "I just love to see a girl smoke a pipe."

Japan has invited Chiang Kai-shek to come over and join with his own kin in the battle against the United States. Before accepting, he undoubtedly will investigate the Japs' position on lend-lease.

COMMUNICATION

Croydon, Pa.
Editor, Courier:

Do you remember Sunday, December 7, 1941, when the radio started us with the announcement of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor? The following day, December 8, 1941, war was declared. That means we have been at war 3 years.

Do you remember your thoughts of 3 years ago when there was danger that your home and loved ones would be attacked? Didn't you say that you were willing to sacrifice your time, your money or anything to preserve your home? Are your thoughts the same today? If not, why not?

The war is far from over. Our troops are in Germany, but not in Berlin! Tokio is 1,000 miles from Shanghai, and we are not even in Shanghai!

The boys and girls in the service can't quit. Neither should we. Let's finish it so that your loved one, your neighbor, or a fellow worker in your office or plant can come home again.

Three years ago men and boys from the Croydon area volunteered for service in the armed forces. Some of these were just out of High School. They have traveled a short hard road to manhood. These lads of 18 became men of 30 after a few short months of active combat. Others won't be back as they saved their all for their country—you and me. Are we giving anything in return?

"Oh yes, I am buying war bonds," you say. Did it occur to you that the purchase of war bonds is not "out of pocket" spending? It is the best investment you ever made and beats taxation where the money never comes back to you. The supplies must be furnished. Let's do this job voluntarily.

If you think this is a sacrifice, transport yourself to the battle front. Live on K rations for 2 or 3 weeks, sleep in a fox-hole in the mud and ice cold water and go to sleep with artillery shells slung in a lullaby. That's what our boys are doing and they are buying war bonds in addition. You have 3 square meals a day, sleep in a good bed in a heated house and never hear a bomb or shell.

This is a direct appeal for you to do more than you first intended. Support the 6th War Loan Drive and invest in another bond through the Croydon Girl Scouts, Croydon Post Office or the Sponsoring Committee.

Our quota is $50,000. We raised it before and we will raise it again. Make a Christmas gift of a bond.

December 11 is the premiere at the Ritz Theatre, when the American Legion medal will be awarded the Girl Scout selling the most bonds.

JAMES E. HARRIS,
Chairman,
6th War Bond Campaign.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
Matthew is selfish, Judith thought, he has always been. His mother's fault, I suppose. It doesn't pay, she argued with herself, to be so sacrificial. If I ever have children I won't martyr myself to them. I'll give them their emotional independence, it's about the only thing you can give them of any value besides standards of decency and education. Mary's done all that for Matthew; she's given him honesty and integrity, she's watched over his health, and she's worked for his education. But he isn't independent. He thinks he is. But he isn't.

Aloud she said, "I'll be glad to see Lynn too. He's such a darling." During the Autumn Eva Lambert wrote Judith cheerfully that she had canceled a projected sailing to Honolulu although they might go after the first of the year. But Cousin Marion wrote also, in agitation and underlining every few words, "You mustn't," she wrote, "ever tell her that I told you, as she would be furious. But your mother isn't well at all, Judith, that heavy cold she took last month just hangs on. The doctor advised the Honolulu trip but she doesn't seem to have the strength to undertake it."

Judith showed the letter to Matthew and he shook his head over it. "I can just see Cousin Marion," he remarked, "about five times, as a rail, and very glibly. People who underline words always talk too much. She's an alarmist, darling. Why don't you write your mother's doctor if you are really disturbed?"

"Cousin Marion," Judith retorted, "is five feet ten and weighs at least two hundred. She could pick Mother up in one arm and me in the other. And she isn't in the least an alarmist. Matthew, I won't be easy until I see for myself. I think I'll fly out."

He said, in blank dismay, "You don't mean now?"

"As soon as I can get ready." They were together in the living room. Judith went over, sat down on his knees, and put her arms around him. She said, "I'll miss you dreadfully. But this is something I must do, dearest."

He said, after a moment, "But

Heavenly Father, grant unto all men a greater zeal for the cultivation of that most difficult of all arts, the art of living together. Help us to realize that it does not involve the necessity that we think alike or that we must ignore our inevitable differences. May fellowship become a vital part of religion until ecclesiastical fences fade into insignificance. Save us from making religion a burden instead of a joy; a load instead of a lift. Help us to find in our religion the energizing faith that will enable us to live together like Christians. Amen.

Well-Known Morrisville Dentist Sued for Divorce

The Krosnicks were married in 1933. Dr. Krosnick testified that he gave his wife $515 in cash about two weeks after entering the service and that at one time while he was abroad he sent his wife as much as $275 a month. It was also testified that Mrs. Krosnick had been employed and made as much as $50 a week herself.

Attorney Achey pointed out to the court that it is the position of his client—the respondent—that Mrs. Krosnick has been living in adultery in Trenton with another man. Mrs. Krosnick denied this.

"This is nothing short of an outrage," Attorney Achey declared. "Mrs. Krosnick has been getting at least $250 a month, sometimes more, and her husband has been living on $70 a month."

Dr. Krosnick admitted that he was not too sick to go hunting for 90 days at a time. He also admitted that he had a new automobile since returning from the service, but that it was a present given to him by his father.

The court indicated that if the divorce proceedings are not hurried along, the court would consider

Potatoes Are Still Abundant

Farmers produced about 89 million bushels more than last year's record crop in the season just past. Even now, at the tail end of winter, there are plenty of potatoes, and they are an excellent buy from the standpoint of food values. They provide vitamin C, for healthy bones, teeth, and gums... this, mind, good for steady nerves... some iron.

Although known as a starchy vegetable, potatoes have their place, even in a reducing diet. A medium-sized baked potato contains about 100 calories—no more than a big juicy apple, a large orange, or a medium-sized baking powder—and it's 78 per cent water. So, regardless of the prevailing ideas about potatoes, they should be included in all standard meal plans for families. A pound of potatoes serve 3 or 4 persons, so a family of 4 needs 10 or 12 pounds of potatoes in its weekly market basket.

The best way to cook potatoes is to boil or bake them in their "jackets." If the skins have been well scrubbed, they can be eaten. Here is a good way to prepare "spuds."

Hashed Browned Potatoes

Slice or chop cooked potatoes into small pieces. Heat a very little fat in a frying pan... then add the potatoes seasoned with salt and pepper. For a crisp crust... add about a quarter of a cup of water for 4 cups diced potatoes. Cook over low heat without stirring until there is a golden brown crust on the bottom. Serve with one side folded over the other like an omelet.

Howard Wenhold, of this place, sent home a Nazi flag approximately 4 by 8 feet as evidence of his success on the battlefields of Luxembourg.

He explains that the Nazis are putting up a stiff battle, but that the advance of the U. S. Army is slow but sure.

The flag, in excellent condition, has a field of solid red with the swastika in the center in white. In addition to the flag, Sgt. Wenhold has many other trophies that were taken from the enemy.

Sgt. Wenhold was wounded in action in August and received the Purple Heart decoration as well as the Bronze Star.

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

Operating on a hunch, Myers hunted in the same area some days later on the faint hope that the Philadelphians would return with the dog for a day ahead. Soon after taking up the hunt Myers saw the group with the dog. A warrant was procured and after a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace John W. Sprekel the case was continued.

Incidentally, Justice Sprekel bred and reared the dog and in July of this year Myers got the dog from the Justice. The dog wore a Bucks county license tag, as well as a plate bearing the name and address of Myers. This was still on the collar when the dog was recovered.

Issue 67 Licenses During November

November, exactly the same number as in October. The docket also shows that approximately 35 per cent of the applicants were men in uniform of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

About 45 per cent of the applicants in November were non-residents of Bucks county, most of whom were married by civil ceremonies. The average age of the male applicants in November was 25 years, while the female applicants averaged 24. There were 17 divorcees among the 134 applicants.

Last November 72 marriage licenses were granted, compared to 67 this November. Two years ago in November there were 116 licenses granted, and in November of 1939, believe it or not, there were 228 licenses granted at the local bureau, and that's when business was really good.

"It's the same old story," commented Deputy "Joe", "our boys are fighting, not marrying just now."

That's the reason the 1944 marriage license business is going to be the poorest in many years.

There was no noticeable disparity in ages of the applicants in November and practically every applicant, male and female, was employed or in the service.
